

ON MY TEAM

Hey. You may know that I recently graduated. As I look toward what's next, I realize that I'm going to need some wisdom and encouragement from people a little farther down the road than me. People like you.

IN OTHER WORDS, I NEED A TEAM.

I need a few trusted adults who make wise decisions in their own lives and care about mine enough that will check in occasionally and help me navigate the first few months of adult life. Would you consider being on my team between now and the end of the semester?

Signing up is easy. Just go to www.OnMyTeam.org and click "I'm a mentor." You'll get emails letting you know when to check in, what to talk about, and why all this matters.

If you can't, don't worry! Life is really busy and I get that. Just let me know by shooting me a text that says: "Hey. I can't be on your team this semester, but I'll be praying for you and cheering from the sidelines."

Thanks again for being the kind of adult that students like me want on their team!

A few things about me:

Name _____

Where I will be living (include new address if you have one) _____

Where will I be going to school or work
